

LANCASTER, PENNSYLVANIA

www.lcps-stamps.org

Meets at 7:30 p.m. the on the second Wednesdays at Bluebird Commons in Woodcrest Villa, 2001 Harrisburg Ave. Charles DiComo, 102 Old Pawling Rd., Pawling, NY 12564-2121 charles.dicomo@gmail.com, 914-450-3791

SOCIETY LAUNCHES NEW WEBSITE

After many months of waiting with baited breath, the Philatelic Society of Lancaster County's website has been revamped and completely updated by Charles J. DiComo, webmaster and board vice president.

He has worked with the original architecture created by Robert Noble to update the text, images, and format of the Home page, as well as Officers & Board, LANCOPEX Show Details & Dealers, Philatelic Links, etc.

DiComo has also updated the PSLC newsletter section with not only current issues, but the past ten years as PDF for easy reading. Over the coming months he will work to add older issues. A new feature he created is a Presentations & Exhibits section, which already houses a few exhibits and more than ten presentations given at club meetings over the years.

In the near future, DiComo also plans to add sections on the society's history and mission, its award winners over the years, current events and a even photo journal. A footer has also been added to of each page with version and contact information to track updates and reach out to DiComo with questions, suggestions, additions.

LANCOPEX STAMP SHOW

The society will have its thirty-second annual LANCOPEX stamp show on April 28 and 29 at the Farm and Home Center of Lancaster County. Admission and parking are free. More than twenty dealers will be offering US, foreign, topicals, covers, postal history and supplies. There will also be a USPS table and show cancel, youth tables and free stamps, and food and refreshments on site.

PROGRAMS

March 8 — Chasing Jenny: A Philatelic Mystery by Jeff Stage; APS & LANCOPEX preparation

April 12 — US Postal Rates: 1792–1869 by Bill Schultz

May 10 — Collectibles and Your Estate by Patti S. Spencer ■

