The Veranda Chronicles

I can't believe that 2024 is almost over and that 2025 is less than a month away! Where did it go? My grandmother warned me of this: that the years will just start to fly by. And I am seeing this happen in real time. As fast as the year has gone by, it has been a good one philatelically on all fronts; so much has happened. The PSLC maintains a strong presence in our hobby, and continues to grow. Sadly, we remember several members and friends who have passed away in the past year. I enjoyed sharing with you last month <a href="The Analysis of New York City Postmarks on Transatlantic Stampless Letters to Foreign Destinations: The Uncommon Use of 'APL' for "April' in lieu of 'APR." I encourage you to check out my exhibit pages on the Presentations page.

I would like to express my gratitude to everyone who made 2024 the successful year that it has been. Our club newsletter and its editor, Scott Ney, have won a Large Vermeil award from APS. Scott edits the newsletter not just for PSLC, but also for the Lebanon and Reading stamp clubs, their combined Patent – Overprint. Everyone who contributes articles and other content to this newsletter, great and small, enjoys part ownership of this award, as the quality of our newsletter depends greatly on those contributions. If you are not already a contributor, please consider working with Scott to have your philatelic writing featured in these pages!

Some consider Len Kasper one of our most important members, as he has provided coffee and other hot drinks each meeting, for years. Even when he is out of town, he makes sure that our thirst is quenched. Lou DiFelice continues as club treasurer and makes payments all month long as well as balancing the books and presenting the financial reports, all on time and in good order. John Hostetter, Bill Greiner, III, and Dave Weichert continue as first VP, second VP, and secretary, respectively, and Paul Petersen continues to coordinate the programs of our monthly meetings, providing us with speakers and programs as well as working the door prizes, donations, and give-away items every month. Our 2025 program schedule is taking shape, so please consider grabbing a slot to present your unique perspective on a favorite philatelic topic.

A relatively recent member of the board is Membership Chairman Wayne Heim. He is the kind face you see when you arrive at the meeting in Lititz every month, and fills a vital role behind the scenes. Wayne is involved in meeting set-up, name tags, dues collection, recognition and the welcoming of new members, continual communication with treasurer and yours truly for the roster and dues, records of all sorts, and much more.

Our three-times-a year auction team of Aaron Heckler, Lou DiFelice, Mike Bach, and Mark Jardel have been steadfastly reliable and up to the job. These events are some of our most popular in-person nights. And speaking of auctions, get ready, as the next one is coming soon, Wednesday, January 8th, 2025. Get your material ready for the auction block!

Many thanks to all of you who have provided snacks throughout the past year, and ditto for those of you who have presented at our meetings. These in-person and digital presentations are all archived on our award-winning website (https://lcps-stamps.org) by date, and if you missed a topic, you will find it here. The .pdfs of the PowerPoints for almost all of the digital and in-person presentations are there, and you will find many of the Zoom presentations on the PSLC's YouTube channel.

One final note of thanks to Fred Sargent and his December Dinner Committee for bringing us back to a catered buffet meal, our first since 2019, before Covid-19 struck us with such vehemence. And remember, PSLC is not just recouping; we're reloading!

Don't forget the K² Weekend Stamp Show in a few weeks. It's on the 21st and 22nd of December, a Saturday and Sunday format at the Lancaster Farm & Home Center. Celebrate the end of the year by acquiring some favorite items. Why not get your spouse that #120a invert that they've always wanted?

In conclusion, please let me wish all of you the best for a wonderful holiday season and bright New Year to come in 2025. You are the best, and I mean this sincerely. - Dr. Charles J. DiComo

Text and photos by Richard Colberg

I recently took a trip down memory lane in my second worldwide stamp album, a Christmas gift from my grandparents in 1954. This is a kid's collection from boyhood through early adulthood. The better items have been removed to specialty albums of the U.S., Great Britain, Canada and France. But there are some interesting things here that I will share with you, most of which I had little or no awareness of.

This set from Austria was accompanied by a yellow Post-it note saying that the set was worth $169. in 2010 Scott. Well, that got my attention! These are Scott #B106-B109, issued in 1933 for the meeting of the International Ski Federation in Innsbruck, February 8-13. The stamps were sold at double their face value with the surtax going to "Youth in Distress". The good news for me is that the mint, lightly hinged set now has a Scott value of $208.50. And, FYI, Wettkampfe translates to "competition".

Toward the back of the album, I found these three Russian sports-related stamps. While at first, I thought they might constitute a set, I was wrong. These are the first three stamps in a 10-stamp set issued in 1935 to commemorate the International Spartasist Games in Moscow. These stamps are CTO and have a 2024 Scott catalogue value of $9.75. How do I know they're CTO? Two clues: they're mint OG, and according to the catalogue, these games never took place! So, in this case, "nothing" has a price tag of $9.75.

I'm embarrassed to say how long it took me to identify these three stamps. Suffice it to say it was more than an hour! The CCCP was a dead giveaway as to Russian origin, however, the overprint was nowhere to be found in Scott. A search through the APS Stamp Identifier proved equally fruitless, not made easy by the Cyrillic alphabet. The initial 3A in the overprint was similar to Yugoslavian BOB issues, but no luck there either. I gave myself a half hour break and a thought came to me. Three years ago, I had performed an appraisal of an extensive collection of Russian Locals. So, I dug into that file and there they were! Russian locals from 1925. These are the 10-, 75-kopecs and 1-ruble stamps from the 7-stamp set. It turns out the stamps had no postal value, and the entire 7-stamp set is worth about $25.

Here's another complete set. I found that I didn't have a lot of complete sets in this old album. These Czechoslovakian mountain bird stamps are Scott #1339-1344, issued in 1965. The used set has a 2024 Scott value of $3.20. With this cancellation I believe the stamps are CTO.

Here's another set, albeit small. In 1950 Cuba issued this 3-stamp set to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the UPU in 1949, Scott #449-451. To the right is another overprint (surcharge) on the same 2-centavo stamp. This is Scott #512 and was revalued for a postage rate increase.

Here's an interesting trio of overprinted Ecuadoran stamps. They are Scott #444-446. The unoverprinted stamps are Scott #370-372. These three stamps are overprinted in gold reading LOOR A CHILE / OCTOBER 2, 1945, to commemorate a visit by President Juan Antonio Rios of Chile. The LOOR A CHILE translates to PRAISE TO CHILE. This is actually a fairly large set of stamps. There are seven regular issue commemoratives, seven airmails and two postal tax stamps. The original set was issued to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the United States Constitution.

Here's another set I found. This is Belgium Q-365-Q367 Railway Post stamps, issued in 1956. I found that I had several stamps in this category, but nothing nearing completeness. Belgium has issued a real "trainload" of these stamps. Through 2007 they issued 493 of them, dating back to 1897. Most have a catalogue value of $0.25. These three stamps picture an electric train passing in front of a building of some sort. These stamps are the same set issued in 1954 but each is surcharged by an additional 1-franc.

Here's another interesting set from Ecuador. This is actually a short set, because the 5-sucre value is missing. This set of five airmails was issued late in 1948. They commemorate Franklin D. Roosevelt and two of his "four freedoms": speech and want. The Scott catalogue numbers are C193-C196.

As you all know, when trying to research stamps like this, it can be a real task to find them in the catalogue. This one was made easier by the choice of subject – FDR. The mid-1940s was where I started, and I soon had my prey.

I include these two stamps as an FYI. They are Algeria Scott #15 and #38 respectively. The 30-centimes stamp is France #172 overprinted for use in Algeria. The 15-centimes stamp, #38, is uniquely Algerian. What puts these two stamps in the same boat is that they are both precancels. The AFFRANCHts / POSTES and the two-line arc are the precancel. AFFRANCHts stands for AFFRANCHISSEMENT or postage. BTW, Algeria can be fun to collect!

My final stop on this trip down memory lane concludes with another short set. These four stamps are from an 8-stamp set from Hungary commemorating United States and Russian space twins flights. The Scott numbers for the complete set are 1803-1810. These four are 1804-1807.

I am currently enjoying a visit to my home in France. In November, I bought a stamp journal called Timbres (French for "stamps") at a newsstand. I subscribe to a different journal called L'Echo de la Timbrologie, a journal for which I have written several articles.

The title of the Timbres editorial caught my eye. Normally, I don't read the editorials because there's too much French for my feeble mind. The title is Bientot le Salon, mais pour combien de temps encore? My translation is Soon the Salon, but how many more times?

The Salon at issue is the Salon Philatelique d'Automne. A Salon is an exhibition. So, this is the autumn stamp exhibition. This is an annual event which I have attended for at least the past ten years. There are several dealers, postal administrations, sources of supplies, and a small exhibition. It's a big deal! Part of my tradition is to have a traditional two-hour lunch with 3-4 friends at a neighborhood restaurant.

For the past few years I've noticed that the number of dealer stands has decreased. It seems to me that my first Salon had about 80 dealers. Today it's between 40 and 50. That's still a bunch and more than one can cover in a day. The show lasts three days. I always go on the first day, a Thursday, hoping there will be fewer collectors because many collectors are still working!

I take an early morning train (6:54 a.m.) into Paris from a neighboring town. Depending on where I start the trip, it takes $1 \frac{1}{2} - 2$ hours. From the arrival train station in Paris, it's a short (6 stops) Metro (subway) ride to within 2 blocks of the exhibit space.

The editor of Timbres questions how long the Salon can continue. He bases this on dwindling attendance, the rising costs of exhibiting space and availability of same and, thus, passing along those costs to the dealers for their stands. Based on my experience yesterday, I question the editor's outlook.

After killing some time with a cup of coffee in the train station, I hopped on the Metro and arrived at the exhibition space seven minutes before the doors were opened. There were about 300 people ahead of me in line to get it! I toyed with just finding a bench to sit out the first entry rush but, in the end, decided to stay in line. Good idea, Colberg! By the time I got into the hall, there were another 200 people in line behind me! That was 15 minutes after the show opening.

At the entry there was a guy from La Poste (the French Post Office) handing out numbers for access to making purchases at La Poste. As I wanted to buy some current postage stamps as well as mail a letter with the show cancel on it, I took a number. It was #334. As the show had only been open for 20 minutes, I checked the overhead counter at La Poste to see what number was currently being served: 34. I was 300 numbers back! I asked a La Poste rep how long that would be; about three hours, he surmised. It's not a bad system; with a number in hand, one can do the rest of the show and check periodically to see what progress is being made. Around 11:30 I was resting in one of the many chairs provided and a lady came up to ask if I wanted a ticket she couldn't use. Its number was 214. That was a 120-number improvement for me so I took it. My mamma didn't raise no fools! At noon number 187 was up, and I went to lunch. At 2 o'clock, upon returning from lunch, number 287 was being served and I gained immediate entry to the purchase line. I was done in about 15 minutes.

So, here's my take: I cannot dispute the editor's comments about rising costs and the availability of space for the exhibition. I'm sure he's correct. But on the first day, attendance in my estimation was huge. I've seen numbers in the past indicating that second day (Friday) attendance is about the same. For some reason, Saturday attendance drops off. I'd estimate a 3-day attendance of between 1500 and 2000. I don't think that's bad.

People were buying! Some dealer stands were so crowded that one had to just decide to return later and hope a spot opened up. The dealers were offering pretty much the same array of material as you're used to seeing in the USA: stamps, postal history, FDCs, and topicals, which are more popular than in the USA. I found a few items for my collection at a small cost. In fact, my purchase at La Poste was three times my cost for philatelic items! So, maybe, at this point in time, the problem is more about economics than the number of participants.

After such a bountiful day, at the end of the train ride back to the station where the day had begun, I was glad to see my wife for a ride home!

And the awards are in . . .

We are honored to report that the Philatelic Society of Lancaster County (PA) website, developed, designed and managed by President Charles J DiComo, PhD, has been awarded a Large Gold in the 2024 American Philatelic Society (APS) Star Route competition.

Recently relaunched, this competition judges the various newsletters and websites of APS Chapters. Since the mid-1800s, the Star Routes were the most challenging routes in the country to deliver U.S. mail. Congress called for contractors to deliver the mail with "celerity, certainty, and security," soon replaced with three stars. Our Star Route chapters serve and grow the hobby in those same tough terrains with that same mission.

The Society website (www.lcps-stamps.org) is our virtual presence, where all can access current and past issues of our award-winning PSLC Newsletter, in addition to our speakers bureau, useful philatelic links, exhibits, presentations, resources, affiliates, president spotlight, regional stamp shows, history and awards, links to our Facebook page and PSLC YouTube Channel, and more!

We also commend Dr. DiComo for being awarded a Large Gold & Grand Champion and a Gold for the U.S. Philatelic Classics Society (USPCS.org) and Empire State Postal History Society (ESPHS.org) websites, respectively. This Grand Champion recognition of the USPCS website follows the same recognition earned by Dr. DiComo for his work on the PSLC website last year. Congratulations, Charlie!

We also congratulate Scott Ney for being awarded a Large Vermeil in the 2024 APS Star Route Newsletter competition. Scott has continued the tradition of Star Route Award recognition, which Editor Emeritus Dr. Paul Petersen began many years ago. Congratulations, Scott!

The full results can be viewed on the APS website: https://stamps.org/community/star-route.

The November Philatelic Gathering

About a dozen collectors gathered in a cozy room on the 3rd floor of the Chester County Historical Society (CCHS) for the November 23 Philatelic Gathering. This was the last gathering of the year.

Before the program, Kean Spencer reminded the group that we use the CCHS free of charge and that any donations to the CCHS would be appreciated. He said we will meet again in February 2025 and reminded everyone to reach out to him if they want to be a presenter next year.

Kean then kicked off the program with "Puerto Rico Revenue Stamps: 1899 - Present." Kean's presentation was based on his exhibit of these stamps at PURIPEX 2024. This has not been a well-studied area of philately, but there is a ground swell of activity and excitement as collectors learn of the unique insight Puerto Rican revenue stamps offer into the history and economy of the island after it became a U.S. possession in 1898.

He noted that although Puerto Rico used overprinted BEP-produced revenue stamps, all the tax revenue collected was kept on the island. Puerto Rico taxed a wide variety of goods including documents, coffee, salt, narcotics, matches, gasoline, chewing tobacco, cigars, and cigarettes. They also collected tax on tobacco products and spirits sold on the mainland. The era of revenue stamps on Puerto Rico ended in the 1970s with one exception: "colegio" stamps. To this day, Puerto Rico collects taxes on professional services such as legal advice, veterinary care, and plumbing, with the revenue collected supporting educational institutions that teach those professions.

For those interested in pursuing this line of collecting, Kean called attention to the Catalogue of Puerto Rico Revenues: U.S. Administration, Sept. 1898-Present by Gregg Greenwald.

Dr. Charles J. DiComo then presented "From the U.S. to Father India & Back Again: A Five-Month Journey of a Baptist Missionary Cover in 1856-1857." Charlie provided a riveting account of how he unraveled the postal journey and personal history behind a cover with more than 20 cancellation and manuscript markings. He described the philatelic and genealogical references he used, as well as digital manipulation tools such as Photoshop and retroReveal.org (what is now postmark-reveal.com).

The cover - initially with 90-cents of postage of which only 6-cents remained when Charlie acquired it - was sent from Ohio to a missionary named Reverend Alfred Brown Satterlee who, together with his pregnant wife Sally, had recently arrived in what is today Myanmar. Satterlee sadly passed away before the letter arrived, so it was returned to the United States. Sally and her newborn daughter also sailed back to the United States. Sally died on board ship, but her daughter, Emily, survived and lived to the ripe old age of 88.

Charlie figured out that the cover initially included 84-cents of postage in the form of seven 12-cent stamps from the Series of 1851. By researching auction catalogs, Charlie tracked down a block of six that had been removed from the cover. The block clearly came from the cover because the postmarks matched up exactly. Charlie is still on the lookout for the seventh 12-cent stamp to complete the cover's reconstruction.

Seven of the attendees then adjourned to the Iron Hill Brewery for lunch and discussion.
