Ideas for establishing a philatelic research habit

There was a time, not so long ago, when researching newspapers meant traveling to libraries with a roll of dimes or quarters and spending hours scrolling through microfilm . . .

But today, you can search within online newspaper archives to find abundant material, on virtually any topic that you are interested in researching, in seconds; and you don't need to leave your home.

The screenshot shows the homepage of Newspapers.com, a service by Ancestry.com. The top navigation bar includes links for 'Search', 'Papers', 'Clippings', and 'Topics'. A large banner on the left features a historical newspaper clipping with the headline 'EXTRA! EXTRA! The Galveston Daily PICTURES OF THE WILD BARROW AND WORKER SLAIN'. The main headline on the page is 'THE PAST: READ ALL ABOUT IT.' Below the search bar, there are three input fields: 'Keyword' (placeholder 'Add a keyword or name'), 'Date (optional)' (placeholder 'Add a date or range'), and 'Location (optional)' (placeholder 'Add a city, state, or country'). A search button with a magnifying glass icon is located to the right. A 'Search by location' section features a dropdown menu set to 'United States' and a map of the United States where states are shaded in various tones of red. A button labeled 'Explore all locations' is at the bottom of this section. A large box at the bottom displays the total number of pages: '1,148,036,559' with the subtitle 'Total newspaper pages'.

Using newspapers.com to do research is very easy! My purpose in this short presentation is not to give you a tutorial, but to show you some of the ways it has been useful in my philatelic and personal research, so that you can determine whether to use old newspapers to explore your own interests.

PATIENT READERS!

For the many letters that have come either to Mr. Gordon Fister, Associate Editor of the Allentown Morning Call, or directly to the Editor of the Eck on the occasion of its thirtieth anniversary, the latter expresses his humble gratitude, knowing full well that the writers of these letters have responded to their generous impulses rather than their critical acumen. Frailty overcomes our reticence, and so we continue to share these letters with our readers. — P.A.B.

Dear Mr. Fister:

Thank you for reminding me of the 30th anniversary of Dr. Barba's Pennsylvaniaisch Deitsch Eck. All of us who are interested in the study of the various aspects of the life and culture of the Pennsylvania Germans owe a great debt of gratitude to Dr. Preston A. Barba for the vast amount of important historical, dialect, and folkloristic material he has published in his Pennsylvaniaisch Deitsch Eck during the past 30 years, and it is my sincere hope that he may be able to continue to edit this weekly column for many more years.

The screenshot shows a search interface for news clippings on Newspapers.com. The top navigation bar includes links for Search, Papers, Clippings, and Topics. The main title 'Browse' is displayed. The search interface is organized into four columns: Country, State, City, and Newspaper. The 'Newspaper' column lists six titles: Evening Report, Lebanon Courier and Semi-Weekly Report, Lebanon Daily News, Lebanon Semi-Weekly News, Sunday-The Daily News, and The Daily News. The 'Newspaper' column is currently expanded to show these titles. The 'Year' column shows a list of years from 1974 to 1988. The 'Month' column shows months from January to December. The 'Date' column shows specific dates: Jun 1, 1985, Sat; Jun 3, 1985, Mon; Jun 4, 1985, Tue; Jun 5, 1985, Wed; Jun 6, 1985, Thu; Jun 7, 1985, Fri; Jun 8, 1985, Sat; Jun 10, 1985, Mon; Jun 11, 1985, Tue; Jun 12, 1985, Wed; Jun 13, 1985, Thu; Jun 14, 1985, Fri; Jun 15, 1985, Sat; and Jun 17, 1985, Mon. Crane, Met-Ed Agree To Pay

An out-of-court settlement has been reached in a 5½-year-old lawsuit by Richard A. Yeagley against Metropolitan Edison Company and United Crane and Shovel Corp., New Berlin, Wis., stemming from the death of his wife.

The lawsuit was scheduled to go to trial on Monday and court sources expected the proceedings to last for about five weeks.

Yeagley's husband, Frank, was electrocuted on Nov. 9, 1977, in an industrial accident in the storage yard of Cleaver Brooks. According to the complaint, Yeagley, along with Harry Reed, Jr., were the keepers for Mrs. Yeagley, one condition of the settlement was that the amount would be publicly revealed.

According to the lawsuit, Yeagley was helping a crane operator move metal boiler shells when the crane came into contact with a high voltage line, killing Yeagley.

The out-of-court settlement, marking damages in excess of $11,000, charged that Met-Ed was negligent because the firm should have known a crane was operated in an unguarded transmission line, and

Appeals Court Blocks TMI Restart

Cooling towers at Three Mile Island rise from the scenic landscape along the Susquehanna River.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal appeals court delayed the restart of the underslung reactor at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant Friday, just five days before it was to reopen for the first time since the 1979 accident at an adjacent unit.

The 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, citing "the public interest involved," unanimously granted a stay of the restart approved two weeks ago by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The court scheduled a hearing June 27 for arguments on whether plant owner General Public Utilities of Pennsylvania, N.J., should be allowed to resume producing electricity at Unit 1.

The unit has not operated for six years, since Unit 2 was crippled on March 28, 1979, in the worst accident in U.S. commercial nuclear history.

Reactors have been idled for such a long time, the NRC has said.

Gov. Dick Thornburgh, who has fought TMI's resumption on behalf of residents of the Middletown area near the state capital, backed the order signed by Judge Calfee J. Scott and supported by Judge Avril L.

I was able to create a history of LEBPEX, the Lebanon Stamp Collectors Club's annual philatelic exposition, which ran from 1973 – 2001, using online newspaper clippings. You can access it on our affiliate page on the PSLC website.

The LSCC thanks Dick Colberg for preparing and sharing the history of the LSCC, and the naming the Club newsletter. If you find a broken link, contact Dr. Charles J. DiComo at charlesdicomo@gmail.com.

LEBPEX In the News

The Lebanon Daily News was Lebanon County's newspaper of record for many years. This document is a collection of LEBPEX items that were recorded in its pages. It is divided into two sections: Lebanon Stamp Collectors Club exhibitions which occurred before LEBPEX was begun in 1973, and the accounts and advertisements for the LEBPEX exhibition, which was for many years hosted by Bosco's and the Lebanon Valley Mall. These clippings were collected from key-word searches conducted on Newspapers.com. The little yellow highlight boxes indicate the search term that turned up the result. The website requires a subscription, which anyone whose hobbies include local history would get plenty of value out of; I found most of these items within my seven-day free trial period. Enjoy this step into the past – it's a tribute to our members, past and present! by Scott Ney, April 2025.

ANNIVERSARY ENVELOPE—The special cachet envelope shown above is representative of those which will be available to listeners at the 120-year performance of the Perseverance Band of Lebanon, this weekend at the Lebanon Valley Mall. I'm currently working on a presentation to deliver to the PSLC in August 2026, tentatively titled, "A Journey to the Ney Post Office: A Rural Mountain P.O. in Late 19th Century Pennsylvania". As you might guess, this is part family history project as well. I am using an MS Word document to collect the clippings I find, which I will use later to put the presentation together.

The postoffice at Cold Springs, Lebanon county, has been named Ney, and Elias Ney has been appointed postmaster.

One interesting feature of many old newspapers is their social columns; this was the "social media" of the olden days, preserved for us on newsprint. You might be able to find an event or two in the life of your grandparents, or a person one of your postal history covers was sent to ..

IONA

Iona, Sept. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haak and Mrs. Sahaeffer were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Heagey, at Mt. Gretna, on Sunday.

A Ford Roadster occupied by two colored people crashed into a tree opposite the Iona store. The car was damaged to some extent and the occupants were slightly injured.

The state road was opened to traffic on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bomberger and son, and Nimrod Dohner, visited Samuel Crouse and family.

The harvest home services were largely attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Gingrich attended the Gingrich reunion on Sunday.

Sunday School at 9. Preaching at 10, every Sunday.

The research possibilities that old newspapers provide are practically endless! I follow a baseball blog on Substack that heavily utilizes newspaper clippings. The author is an APBA baseball simulation game aficionado; I'm sure many of you remember the APBA headquarters on the road to Millersville before the company relocated to Georgia.

The Disputed 1905 American League Pennant

The scandal you've never heard of

OCT 29 • DANIEL EVENSEN

In previous days we experienced a racing on the championship. No club ever won the pennant without a bit of luck. This held good today, though it was not rewarded by the inflated score. The Browns had a good game, but the Athletics had more hits, ten to nine, and their drives were clean cut affairs. But they could not be made productive, as all extra-base hits were errors. The Browns were left on bases. Two of the Athletics long hits, both by Wm. Cagan, did not have been cuts. Cagan started to place the ball in the hole away with the first five batters, allowing only four hits. As the ball was bunted up for two singles and a double, and the seventh batter went to the firing line. Score:

St. Louis	1	12	2	A	B
Wm. Cagan	0	0	0	0	0
Stockard	2	1	0	0	0
McGraw	0	0	0	0	0
W. Cagan	0	0	0	0	0

Phillies give Mets a Hayesing

Von sets the stage in record 26-7 rout in grand fashion

From our news services

PHILADELPHIA — Von Hayes walked into the Philadelphia Phillies clubhouse, looked at the lineup card and dropped his head in disappointment.

"I looked at the middle of the lineup and I wasn't there," said Hayes, who usually bats third or fourth. "Then I saw my name at the top of the lineup. I thought, 'They got to be kidding me.'

"I never led off before (for the Phillies). Two days ago I was cleanup hitter. From cleanup to number one, it made me think."

But manager John Felske wasn't kidding Tuesday night. He was giving left fielder Jeff Stone a night off and, not wanting to change anyone else, just moved Hayes to the top.

All Hayes did was lead the greatest single game offensive in the 103-year history of the Phillies — a 26-7 thumping of the New York Mets.

HAYES, MIRED in a paralyzing slump, hit two home runs and a single, scored four times, drove in six runs and joined an exclusive major league hitter's club.

In a nine-run first inning, Hayes led off with his fourth home run and capped the inning with his first career grand slam, becoming the 13th National Leaguer and one of only 21 players in major league history to hit two homers in one

The rundown

Phillies 9, Mets 0

Phillies Second — Schmidt singled to left. Wilson couped to left. Schmidt to third. Diaz singled to right. Schmidt and Wilson scored. Maddox tripled to right. Diaz scored. Aguiyo grounded out to pitcher. Hudson singled to right. Maddox scored. Hayes singled to left. Hayes to third. Schmidt couped to left-center. Hayes and Samuel scored. Doug Sisk relieved Schmitz. Wilson flied out to right.

Phillies 16, Mets 0

Mets Third — Clint Hurdle singled to right. Jerry Grote grounded to left. Hurdle to third. Sisk grounded out to first. Schmidt to second. Santana to third. Wally Backman singled to center. Santana scored. Howard Johnson singled to center. Backman to second. Keith Hernandez grounded out to pitcher. Backman to third. Hernandez scored. Gary Carter singled to third. Backman scored. Johnson to third. Danny Heep flied out to center.

Phillies 16, Mets 3

Mets Fourth — George Foster doubled to right. Hurdle grounded out to first. Foster to third. Santana hit sacrifice fly to center. Foster scored. Sisk sole on left fielder Hayes' fielding error. Backman singled to left. Sisk to second.

Why not try it out for yourself?

Happy hunting!

Lebanon Courier and Semi-Weekly Report

Stage Route Ended.

On Thursday the Schaefferstown-Lebanon daily stage ran for the last time over the route, having been abandoned by the Post-office Department. The driver, George Corl, of Schaefferstown, intends to run a tri-weekly hack for the accommodation of passengers and carrying freight between the two places. The Iona postoffice will continue two weeks more and then also be closed, as well as the Reistville postoffice.
